July 2012

Thank You!

On behalf of the Reedsville Village Board I would like to take the opportunity to thank all of the village residents who are taking pride in our community. Board members have noticed many properties that are being improved. New windows, siding, roofing and landscaping just to mention a few of the improvements that have been noticed. Residents who take pride in their community are truly great citizens. Improving your property also improves the properties around you. If you notice your neighbor making improvements, thank them, and encourage other neighbors to do the same. Again, THANK YOU to all the village residents who are taking pride and helping to improve our community – it is truly appreciated. Keep up the good work!

BREAK FREE: NATURAL TOOLS FOR OVERCOMING ADDICTIONS DRUGS

In discussing drug addiction we are talking about both illegal and prescription drugs (such as pain killers or barbiturates, which can also be addictive. Of course, professional assistance should be sought with drug addiction, but there are natural remedies that can help, too. Specifically, withdrawal from drug addiction requires detoxification and nutritional support for the nervous and glandular system. Drugs of all kinds place a heavy burden on the detoxification systems of the liver. So a person trying to get off of drugs should support the liver with formulas from Nature's Sunshine Products like Milk Thistle Combination, All Cell Detox and Enviro-Detox. It is very important to drink plenty of pure water to help flush the toxic drugs from the system. Support for the nervous system depends on the type of drugs one is addicted to. If stimulants are the problem, then naturally increasing energy with Target Endurance or Cellular Energy and supporting the adrenals with Adrenal Support or Nervous Fatigue Formula will be very helpful. Overcoming an addiction to tranquilizers can be aided by herbs that also provide a relaxing effect, such as Herbal Sleep. For addiction to pain killers, try a milder analgesic, such as IF Relief, Triple Relief, or Relief Formula. The rule of thumb here is that if you can find a milder herb with a more natural effect, you can use it to ease withdrawal.

More on addictions next month.

Schedule your child's back-to-school physical today

Although it's hard to believe, summer is quickly approaching the halfway mark. Both parents and children are enjoying a well-deserved break from the hectic, school-year routine.

Before the rush of back-to-school preparations gets into full swing, consider scheduling your child's back-to-school physical in the next few weeks. Routine health screenings for school-age children are very important.

Back-to-school checkups are the only visit some children, especially teens, will have with a health care provider all year. A health maintenance exam involves much more than having a provider sign a permission card to meet school or WIAA requirements for participating in organized sports.

A back-to-school exam includes a thorough medical check-up, review of immunizations and time to talk about any developmental issues that the child may be facing.

The annual exam gives the health care provider an opportunity to offer advice and information on important topics such as proper nutrition and exercise. The provider can also offer counseling on important safety and injury prevention topics, such as the age-appropriate use of booster seats, seat belts, bike helmets and sunscreen.

In addition to addressing health issues, it gives health care providers a chance to talk with adolescents about making healthy lifestyle choices, such as avoiding drugs, tobacco products and alcohol. Health care professionals may also ask specific questions to screen teens for depression.

To ensure the highest quality of continuity and medical care, every child should have a primary care provider and a 'medical home'. Keep in mind that developing a long-term relationship with a child or adolescent gives the health care provider greater awareness of that child's progress and development by knowing his or her medical history. This helps health care providers detect any new problems that may be emerging. A medical home is also a valuable resource for parents too - giving them a reliable place to ask questions and discuss any concerns they may have about their child's development.

Addressing any physical or emotional issues now can have a positive impact on how well your child will adjust to the new school year and perform in the classroom. During their school-age years, children are going through a period of rapid growth, learning, exploration and emotional and physical development. The value of regular physical exams with a trusted health care provider should not be overlooked.

As a parent you routinely do many things to help keep your offspring happy, healthy and safe. Scheduling a health maintenance exam can go a long way toward that end.

Note to parents: Aurora Medical Center Sports Medicine will be offering comprehensive Student-Athlete Sports Physicals on July 12, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Aurora Health Center, 106 Mill Street, Reedsville. The $25 fee will be donated to your school's athletic department. Register today by calling (920) 754-4337. A parent or guardian must accompany the athlete. The parent portion of the WIAA sports physical form must be completed and signed prior to the visit.
